	Lot# 288 High Bid: 2 Piece Samuri Sword Set The larger sword measures 48 3/4" long in it's sheath. The jewelry on these is similar, the sheaths have the same inlaid decoration and they both have a distinctive swell at the business end of the blade. Because of this, I only removed the handle from the larger sword and showed this signature. Also, there is a 2 engraved inside the handle, which I take to mean a 2 sword set.

	Lot# 289 High Bid: 3 Piece Samuri Sword Set. Chinese Red What a great looking and greatly made set. Of course the Chinese Red Lacquer sheaths immediately catch your eye, but the damascus in the blades is really fine. The largest of the swords measures 43 1/2" in it's sheath. Again, as these are definitely a matched set, I only removed the handle from the largest sword to show the signature. Also inscribed on that handle is "T321TW8" I don't know if this is a serial number, inventory number, or if it relates to the specific pieces ordered for this set. The blade on the Tanto has the worst pitting and it's right at the handle. You should be able to see it in the picture of the 3 blades crossed. All 3 blades have the impressed figure.

	Lot# 290 High Bid: Signed Samuri Sword Fantastic looking Samuri Sword. Measures 40 1/2" long in it's sheath. The blade has a fair amount of pitting. Several pictures should tell the story there. My favorite as far as looks go.

	Lot# 291 High Bid: Made in Spain Broadsword w/Engaving Wow. This is by far the heaviest item that we are offering today, and it's our last internet lot too! This broadsword measures 39 1/2" long. "In Nomine Domini" is the verse that's repeated around the engraved shield. The same shield is engraved on both sides of the sword. Also, the decoration on the handle is on both sides too.
